For people.

Everyone benefits when land is conserved, including those who use, make their living from and are inspired by our magnificent lands. Conservation improves our quality of life.

- ▶ Ensures clean water and air
- ▶ Supports the economy through tourism, outdoor recreation, and local food & wine production
- ▶ Connects us to our region's rich history and culture
- ▶ Creates hands-on opportunities for children and adults to experience our natural world
- ▶ Provides inspiration, renewal and solace

For nature.

Human development has had a significant impact on the environment and the natural world. When land is conserved, nature is restored. Our work results in a range of environmental benefits.

- ▶ Protects critical habitat for plants and animals
- ▶ Preserves working lands including farms, ranches and forests
- ▶ Creates undisturbed places where nature can achieve balance

Forever.

The tools we use to safeguard land are meant to last forever. That means future generations will benefit and enjoy the natural wealth we value today.

- ▶ Voluntary conservation agreements with landowners allow their vision for their land to live on long into the future.
- ▶ SOLC will consider owning land when the conservation values are very high, either through a donation or bargain sale.
- ▶ Staff offers expertise and resources to landowners as they care and steward their conserved property.
